I. Policy/Procedure

This policy outlines the guidelines on the issuing of ID cards as well as replacement ID cards for stolen, lost, or damaged cards.

II. Scope

This policy applies to anyone who receives a Luther ID card, including but not limited to students, faculty, staff, departments, retirees, emeriti and community users. ID cards are used for identification, charging privileges, activity entrance, door access and library checkout. It is the responsibility of the card holder to keep track of the card, monitor usage and approve charges.

III. Terms and Definitions

- A magnetic stripe card is a type of card which stores data on the band of magnetic material on the card. The magnetic stripe card, sometimes called swipe card, is read by swiping the card past a magnetic reading head. Luther has two different types (weights) of magnetic stripe cards. The less expensive, lighter weight plastic card is used for temporary ID cards.
- A radio-frequency identification (RFID) card uses radio waves to transfer data from the electronic tag on the card to a card reader. RFID cards are also called proximity cards or a PROX card, because you need only go near the card reader to identify your card. The RFID card is more convenient than the magnetic stripe card when accessing a building. The RFID card is more expensive to create and maintain than a magnetic stripe card.
- Meal Plan ID cards are issued to people who are participating in programs coordinated through summer programming for use in Dining Services locations. Meal Plan ID cards are also issued to early arrivals in August who have board plans. Dates and meal plan types are printed on the cards for all categories of meal plan ID users.
- Current students can request use of a temporary ID card for three days in lieu of their misplaced permanent ID card.
- Faculty/staff, student, and department cards are intended for identification of and transactions of Luther College business.
- ID cards must be returned, if requested.
- Only the owner of the card is allowed to use the card.
